What Means Peace to Me

Peace is very important to me. According to Google, peace is defined as “freedom from disturbance; tranquility.” Peace to me is no war, unity, community, and togetherness. You need peace because without peace people wouldn't be able to get along. Without peace the world would be so much different. There would be hatred, war and all that bad stuff. Without peace, countries and states could go into war.

To me, true peace is when black and brown lives matter. Peace to me would be that I could walk to the store and someone would not think I'm robbing it. Peace to me would be being able to sleep safe in my bed tonight without being shot. Peace means to me that when I learn how to drive I will be alive if I get pulled over. Peace means to me that I can walk alone and feel safe. To me, peace means that my family can be as safe as other families. To me, peace means my dad can go jogging without being scared. To me, peace means being able to walk around without people wondering if I belong there. To me, peace means that I can walk down the street with my family and people won't stare at us.

To me, peace means that I won't be judged by the color of my skin and that people will get to know me for who I am.

That is what peace is to me.
